DETAILED TEACHER FEEDBACK

This composition shows a good understanding of the topic of friendship, with clear and well-structured ideas. Your personal anecdotes are engaging and effectively illustrate your points, demonstrating originality in your approach. However, there are significant challenges with grammatical accuracy, particularly in verb tense consistency, subject-verb agreement, and the use of articles. While your expression is generally clear, the frequent errors detract from the overall quality of your writing. To improve, focus on careful proofreading and targeted practice on the identified grammatical areas. Keep up the good work in developing your ideas!

AREAS FOR IMPROVEMENT

1. Subject-Verb Agreement: Ensure the verb agrees in number with its subject (e.g., 'everyone knows', 'one likes').
2. Verb Tense Consistency: Maintain a consistent tense throughout your narrative, especially when recounting past events (e.g., use past tense like 'wanted', 'laughed', 'sat', 'shared', 'learned', 'passed', 'stopped', 'regretted').
3. Use of Articles: Remember to use 'a', 'an', or 'the' before nouns where appropriate (e.g., 'a friend', 'a caring heart').
4. Word Forms: Pay attention to using the correct form of words (e.g., 'cleverness' as a noun, 'deeper' as a comparative adjective).
5. Gerunds: Use the '-ing' form of a verb (gerund) after prepositions (e.g., 'instead of being happy') and sometimes after certain verbs (e.g., 'stopped talking').
6. Plural Nouns: Use plural forms when referring to multiple items (e.g., 'families', 'behaviours', 'quarrels', 'exams').
7. Punctuation: Practice using full stops to end sentences and commas to separate clauses or items for better clarity and flow.

IMPROVED VERSION FOR LEARNING

Friendship is very important in life, but not everyone knows how to make or keep it. Many people think a friend is just someone to talk with when they are happy, but true friendship is deeper. A real friend is the one who stands with you when you fail, when you are sick, or when your family is not there. In my own life, I have seen the power of friendship. One year, I was very lonely at school; no one wanted to sit with me, and people laughed when I tried to answer. Then, a girl called Sarah just sat with me. She was not rich and not very clever, but she shared her food and her smile. From that, I learned that friendship is not about money or cleverness, but about a caring heart.
